

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

Improvements to chemical reaction systems provide for the production of commercial quantities of chemical products, such as chemical powders. The improved chemical reaction systems can accommodate a large reactant flux for the production of significant amounts of product. Preferred reaction systems are based on laser pyrolysis. Features of the system provide for the production of highly uniform product particles.